Backdrop

The news and media are frequently monopolised by impacts of climate change, pollution of oceans, diversity and human rights issues to mention a few. The heightened societal awareness has caused many to 'want to do their bit' by making conscious behavioural changes. Careful use of resources, modes of transport, supply chain considerations, use of plastics and recycling are often part of daily routine choices. Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) considerations are now becoming integrated into core investment decision making as well.

ESG Policy Makers

Global and local policy makers have put ESG at the heart of their focus, including the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the Paris Climate Agreement and the EU Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulations (SFDR). The global aims include addressing issues from global warming, polluting oceans, diversity in workplace and labour standards. The Financial Services Industry have also been set higher standards as 'part of the solution' to influence change and better practices using their engagement and voting powers as company shareholders. Wealth Managers and Institutional Investors are embedding ESG within their business models. This is also becoming a core part of the Retail Financial Advice Sector we operate within. As a consequence, Responsible Investment options are incorporated as part of our investment proposition options.

Responsible Investing

New Sustainable investment options are becoming available that focus more on making a positive impact through the companies they invest in, rather than simply avoiding so called 'sin stocks', like tobacco, fossil fuel producers and weapons manufacturers. We are looking to build out our Responsible investment options to meet the sustainability preferences of our clients and are therefore reaching out with this survey.

Your Sustainable investment preferences

Have your say to help us better understand your needs. Please complete the survey which should take no longer than 5 minutes. This confidential data will help us understand your views and factor that into our planning to expand our Responsible investment options.
